THE day of the individual executor has passed. Under the complex features of the Transfer Tax Law, an expert is needed to administer estates.

For many years this Trust Company has specialized in work of this kind. As executor, or co-executor with some one you trust, its services cost you no more than an individual's and the fact that it is immune to the hazards of life is a feature you can't overlook.

KEMALISTS WOULD END CAPITULATIONS

In Parley Will Demand All Elementary Rights of a Sovereign State.

CONSTANTINOPLE, Oct. 17 (Associated Press).—Hamid Bey, the Nationalist representative, to-day declared that all the European (and American?) capitulations will be abolished if the Kemalists demands are approved at the general peace conference.

"All the old treaties are null and void and the peace conference will have a clean slate," he said. "We propose to build on an extension of the foundation of the Western world. We have no objection to President Wilson's fourteen points, the modern principles of nationalities, or other large ideas which have been proclaimed in the past few years as part of the new gospel of international law, but, on the other hand, we shall demand extension to Turkey of all the elementary rights of a sovereign people, the same as are enjoyed by other nations."

Hamid Bey said that the Kemalists regarded the holding of the peace conference at Smyrna as of the highest importance. "For the purpose of the peace conference," he said, "we shall transfer the National Assembly to Smyrna. Thus we shall concentrate the full legislative, executive and military powers of our country, and no time will be lost by delays in transmission of proposals."

Deprecating the introduction of the word "Christian" into the discussion of the measures the Government is taking against the Greeks, he declared: "Religion does not enter into our decision. All creeds are treated alike, but traitors will be punished whether they be Christian or Moslem. Those of our populations who remained loyal will be always the objects of our care and affection, whether Moslem, Christian or Jew."

In anticipation of a possible outbreak of disorder, the French mission here dispatched a squadron of cavalry to Adrianople, where a grave situation exists, due to the Greek evacuation. Admiral du Mesnil, commanding the French naval forces in the Near East, and Gen. Priou of the French mission, will leave here for points in Thrace to-morrow morning to supervise the evacuation.

The earlier departure of 1,300 French troops for Adrianople is interpreted as signifying that the allied command regards the disrupted state of things as grave and their dispatch was taken as a precaution in the much agitated situation. The Mudanya convention provided that the allied missions take over the territory after the evacuation of the Greek army. The movement of French troops to Adrianople may result in a protest from the Greeks.

The evacuation of all the Greek troops from Thrace is expected to be completed by October 25. This would be five days ahead of the Mudanya plan.

Constantinople is donning its gayest dress for the reception of the Turkish Nationalist gendarmes expected to reach here to-morrow. Triumphant arches have been erected, immense colored lithographs of Mustafa Kemal are displayed and the whole city is festooned with flags and evergreens.

The French Government announced that it had withdrawn its protection from all of the Greeks, Armenians and Jews who have adopted the French nationality since the armistice.

WOMEN WITHOUT COUNTRY ARE NUMEROUS IN LONDON

American Law Bars Passports to Wives Born in England, Considering Them English, and American Wives of Britons Cannot Get British Visas.

LONDON, Oct. 17 (Associated Press).—Women without a country are becoming numerous here as a result of the new American law allowing American women who marry foreigners to retain their own nationality and providing that foreigners who become the wives of Americans keep their native identity.

Dozens of distracted women have been applying daily at the American Consulate for passport visas only to learn that they have lost their native nationality and have nothing to replace it. Under the British law a woman who marries a foreigner automatically loses her British citizenship, and therefore cannot obtain a British passport. If, having married an American, she tries to obtain a United States passport, she is confronted with the fact that she is not an American at all, because, under the new law she retains her own nationality.

Nor can the American wife of a Briton obtain a British visa on an American passport, because, under the British law she is British, not American.

Complications worse than mere inconvenience may arise from the new law. It is pointed out. For example, if one of these "women without a country" should die on board ship unfortified with the necessary passport intricate complications over the litigation of her property might arise. In consular circles there is a rather general feeling that the advocates of the new law were perhaps so zealous over their independence that they forgot to consider potential complications.

"But they've got what they wanted," said one official, "and we must do the best we can for them."

"However, one can't help but reflect that they are 'hoist by their own petard.'"

LLOYD GEORGE PREPARED TO RESIGN POST AT ONCE

and buoyant as ever. Later in opening the new building of the Port of London Authority he was accorded an enthusiastic reception and was cheered along the way. The building occupies a position on Tower Hill, and the Prime Minister, not overlooking a historical connection, drew a great laugh by saying: "After the tragic events (executions, etc.) which have occurred on this site it isn't an encouraging one for an offending Minister to come to."

The Tory die-hards lamented the passing of the good old days when they gathered to-day to hear Lord Salisbury attack the coalition and make an appeal for party freedom. "Let us return to clean politics, for the whole standard of public life has been lowered," Lord Salisbury declared.

LONDON, Oct. 17 (Associated Press).—The Marquis of Salisbury, leader of the so-called "die-hards" of the Conservative party, condemned the Coalition Government, and took issue with the recent stand of Austen Chamberlain, the Government leader, on the continuance of the Coalition. He said that the Coalition had become increasingly unpopular in the country. He asserted that he was speaking for the whole Conservative party when he said that the Conservative party could no longer be responsible for political events. "Experimental legislation which failed, extravagance, the abandonment of authority in India and Egypt and the deplorable condition in Ireland," "These things are notorious," he said.

The leader of the "die-hards" declared that the only ground for continuing the Coalition was a Bolshevik bogey.

"To say that most of our working classes are Bolsheviks is an absurdity," said the Marquis. "I believe they are hard working and patriotic. The Coalition is gone and we respectfully demand our freedom as a party."

The Duke of Northumberland, Lord Carson, Viscount Wolmer and Col. Henry

Pase Croft were present at the gathering. They are all prominent Conservatives.

Mr. Cosgrave declared before Parliament a few days ago that if Ulster contracted out of the Free State his Government would stand or fall by the full execution of the treaty clause under discussion. If the diehard element after an English election should nullify this it would be tantamount to the destruction of the treaty and might upset the entire settlement.

PREMIER DETERMINES UPON ALTERNATIVES

Dissolution if Victorious; Resignation if Conservatives Quit.

LONDON, Oct. 17.—The political correspondent of the Central News claims to be able to state positively that if Mr. Chamberlain emerges successful from Thursday's meeting at the Carlton Club Mr. Lloyd George will at Leeds on Saturday announce the immediate dissolution of Parliament.

According to the Daily Mail, the Premier announced at the meeting of the Liberal Ministers this evening that he would resign if Mr. Chamberlain was defeated at the Carlton Club meeting Thursday.

Mr. Lloyd George extolled the help received from the Conservative Ministers in the coalition, and was assured in his own mind that a majority of them would remain associated with him whatever the result of Thursday's meeting.

The Premier did not pronounce the result of the meeting, but his auditors gathered that he was at least doubtful whether Mr. Chamberlain would have a majority.

He further indicated that he intended to appeal to the electors to support continued cooperation of the Conservative and Liberal parties on the ground that stability was needed in the conduct of the Government.

URGES THAT FRANCE RECOGNIZE SOVIET

Mayor Herriot of Lyons Says Bolshevik Authority Is Firmly Fixed.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK HERALD. Copyright, 1922, by THE NEW YORK HERALD. New York Herald Bureau, Paris, Oct. 17.

"The authority of the Bolsheviks in Russia is so stable that I am forced to admit the necessity of France sending a mission there. Moreover, I intend making an effort for the admission of a Soviet delegation to France. The hour has come when France must take her place in Russian affairs, as the efforts of Germany to exercise influence in Russia seem to have failed utterly."

In these words M. Herriot, Mayor of Lyons and head of radical sentiment in the French Chamber, summarized the Russian situation on his return from that country, where he headed an investigating committee of French Socialists. He will make a report which will be the basis for a great radical Socialist movement to bring Russia back into the commercial and political affairs of Europe.

Hitherto Herriot has confined his remarks to a bare approval of the idea that there is a great opportunity for the restoration of Franco-Russian trade relations, but an interview published in Excelsior predicts that Herriot will back a new effort to reach a compromise with the Bolsheviks despite the declarations of Poincare and the Bloc National that full recognition of private property rights must be assured first.

"I am convinced that a Franco-Russian rapprochement is not only desirable but possible," Herriot is further quoted as having said. "The question of the debts of the old regime no longer provides an obstacle, but only the question of private property rights, and if tactful negotiators seek a compromise I am convinced that they will find it."

Herriot's pronouncement is likely to cause serious difficulties if the Government persists in its policy of ignoring Russia. Although the top of the Lyons politician had no political sanction, his report is being anxiously awaited by big French business interests, which, despite their affiliation with the controlling elements in Parliament, have been worried over the prospects of Germany or England getting the upper hand in the Russian markets.

If Herriot justifies his opinions by citing pledges from the Bolsheviks which will permit of a compromise it is not believed here that big business will permit political sentimentalism to stand in the way of some sort of immediate recognition. The attitude of the majority of the French press is that the Russians should have representation in the conference fixing the regime of the Dardanelles. Herriot considers this to be essential to Franco-Russian relations and has announced that he will support such a contention in the French Chamber in the next few days.

Analyzing the Railroads

THURSDAY, October 19th, The New York Tribune will publish the first of a series of forty daily articles revealing the present earning power of the leading steam railroads of the country.

Written in popular, understandable language, these articles are based on an intensive study of a vast mass of fundamental railroad statistics and valuation reports. They show the effect of the Transportation Act of 1920, the subsequent changes in rates and wages and indicate the investment and speculative possibilities in the stocks and bonds of various roads.

The studies were undertaken at the request of The New York Tribune by the Standard Statistics Company, Inc., of New York, which prepared the articles.

The first article will analyze the earning power of Atchison, Topeka & Santa Fe, the second will deal with the Atlantic Coast Line and the third with the Louisville & Nashville. The subsequent thirty-seven articles will cover other important railroad systems.

These studies are a valuable contribution to the business, financial and investment literature of the day. Read them daily.
